

Rationale

Loretto College Ballarat is committed to:

- zero tolerance of child abuse;
- listening to and empowering children and young people; and
- keeping children and young people safe.

Loreto Ministries, in carrying out its governance responsibilities, facilitates and ensures the implementation of child safe policies and codes of conduct across all Loreto schools. Loreto Ministries vests the management of Loreto Schools in the individual School Boards. The Loreto College Ballarat School Board executes its management responsibility through the principal and the leadership team of the College to ensure Loreto College Ballarat is safe for children and young people and is a place where children and young people can flourish.

The Loreto College Ballarat Board has particular responsibilities for the safeguarding of children and young people as required by the Ministerial Order 1359 Implementing the Child Standards- Managing the Risk of Child Abuse in Schools and School Boarding Premises.

This places accountability for managing the risk of child safety and abuse on the Board. Consistent with Ministerial Order 1359, the Board is required to have in place appropriate arrangements to regulate the conduct and decisions of school staff for the benefit of all students.

These arrangements include implementing and complying with the Loreto College Ballarat's Child Safe Policies and having clear and comprehensive procedures and reporting mechanisms. The objective is for the Loreto College Ballarat Board and the wider school community to be confident in the school's capacity to make and implement appropriate decisions, with child safety as an overriding principle.

Loreto College Ballarat will take account of the diverse needs of children, paying particular attention to the needs of First Nations children. Loreto College Ballarat will also pay particular attention to the needs of students with disability, students from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, students who are unable to live at home, international students and LGBTIQ+ students.

Policy Statement

The Loreto College Ballarat Board is responsible for the development of strategies to deliver appropriate education about:

- Children and young person safety and abuse awareness and prevention
- Standards of behaviour for students attending Loreto College Ballarat
- Healthy and respectful relationships, including sexuality

The Loreto College Ballarat promotes the Ministerial Order 1359 Implementing the Child Standards- Managing the Risk of Child Abuse in Schools and School Boarding Premises and requires that Loreto College Ballarat Board ensure these Standards are promoted and presented in ways that are readily accessible, easy to understand and user-friendly to children and young people, in particular, the complaints processes.

The Loreto College Ballarat Board requires the school to take steps to understand the diverse circumstances and needs of children and young people who engage or may engage with them.

The Loreto College Ballarat Board requires the school to provide staff and volunteers with information and guidance:

- about children and young people's diverse circumstances, how to identify factors that can increase vulnerability to harm and how to promote equity and safety for all children and young people

- on how to take action to support and respond to children and young people who are experiencing vulnerability, including making inquiries and responding where there are signs of increased vulnerability
- on how to take action to uphold equity for all children and young people, promote children's safety and
- prevent child abuse and harm

The Loreto College Ballarat Board requires school leaders to set clear expectations around achieving equity and respect for diversity.

The Loreto College Ballarat Board is required to ensure that all children are reasonably supported to participate in all school activities.

Students at Loreto College Ballarat will take an active part in establishing and embedding appropriate standards of behaviour.

Students will be encouraged to make positive changes within the school environment and these strategies will be documented in schools.

Children and young people have unique insights into their own lives, their needs and the world around them. They have a right to be heard and have their concerns and ideas taken seriously, particularly on matters that affect them – including how to keep them safe.

At Loreto College Ballarat, enabling and promoting the empowerment and participation of children and young people includes:

- providing students with access to sexual abuse prevention programmes and to relevant related information in a developmentally and age-appropriate way
- supporting children and young people to understand their rights, contributing to child safety planning and raising concerns
- promoting and encouraging children and young people's participation in decision-making
- seeking children and young people's views about what makes them feel safe and unsafe
- valuing and respecting children and young people's opinions
- establishing an environment of trust and inclusion that enables children to ask questions and speak up if they are worried or feel unsafe
- promoting children's participation provides valuable information about their experience
- facilitating means that children and young people are empowered to develop child-safe policies that are understandable and owned by them

Loreto College Ballarat will initiate student engagement in the school review processes by means such as focus groups or surveys about various child safety issues to determine the level of understanding and awareness in school communities.

Definitions

Cultural safety: Cultural safety is about creating an environment that is safe for First Nations people. This means there is no assault, challenge or denial of their identity and experience. Cultural safety is about:

- Shared respect, shared meaning, and shared knowledge
- The experience of learning together with dignity and truly listening
- Strategic and institutional reform to remove barriers to the optimal health, wellbeing and safety of First Nations people. This includes addressing unconscious bias, racism and discrimination, and supporting First Nations peoples' self-determination
- Individuals, organisations and systems ensuring their cultural values do not negatively impact First Nations peoples, including addressing the potential for unconscious bias, racism and discrimination
- Individuals, organisations and systems ensuring self-determination for First Nations people. This includes sharing power (decision-making and governance) and resources with First Nations communities. It is especially relevant for the design, delivery and evaluation of services for First Nations people.

Cultural safety is the positive recognition and celebration of cultures. It is more than just the absence of racism or discrimination and more than 'cultural awareness' and 'cultural sensitivity'. It empowers people and allows them to contribute and feel safe to be themselves. (Commission for Children and Young People, 2022,p172)

Culturally and linguistically diverse: Culturally and linguistically diverse is a broad and inclusive term for communities with diverse language, ethnic background, nationality, dress, traditions, food, societal structures, art and religion characteristics.

Culturally and linguistically diverse does not usually include Aboriginal communities and people because of distinct history and experience as Australia's First Nations people. For the purpose of the Standards there are specific considerations for First Nations children and young people, however, the cultural and linguistic diversity of First Nations people is also acknowledged.

Diversity: describes a range of personal characteristics, circumstances, life experiences and backgrounds. The combination of these differences makes up a child's unique identity and shapes the way they experience the world and the types of needs they have

Empowerment: is building up children and young people to strengthen their confidence in themselves and in an organisation. It involves equipping children with the skills and knowledge to make informed decisions and enabling them to increase control of their lives

Equity: means making adjustments so that children have equal opportunity for the skills, knowledge and resources they need to be safe regardless of their characteristics, circumstances, life experiences and backgrounds

Human rights: are rights inherent to all human beings, regardless of race, sex, nationality, ethnicity, language, religion, or any other status. Human rights include the right to life and liberty, freedom from slavery and torture, freedom of opinion and expression, the right to work and education, and many more. Everyone is entitled to these rights, without discrimination

Personal attribute: a personal characteristic that is protected by State or Commonwealth anti-discrimination legislation. These include race, disability, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, religious belief or activity, political belief or activity, age, intersex status, physical features, pregnancy, carer and parental status, breastfeeding, marital or relationship status, lawful sexual activity, employment activity, industrial activity, expunged homosexual conviction or personal association with anyone who is identified with reference to any protected attribute

Sexism: is when people are treated unfairly or bullied because of their sex. All children, young people and adults, regardless of their sex characteristics or identity, should be treated fairly and given equal opportunities. It is against the law to be treated unfairly or bullied because of your sex. Outdated gender stereotypes can lead to sexist attitudes and discriminatory behaviour.

Policy Review and Approval

This policy will be reviewed as part of the school's two-year review cycle of its child safety practices.
